

Including Personal Props in your Photoshoot

Wedding Rings

Although I'll provide all the necessary props and accessories for your photoshoot, sometimes it's also nice to include something of your own to add a little personal touch. Not only does it add something unique to your photographs, it also gives a sense of scale so as your little one grows you can look back and remember just how tiny they were compared to whatever you choose to include.

Personal props can be absolutely anything at all that says something about you and/or will give you something to look back on. Just let me know what you'd like to include during the planning stage of your photoshoot so that I can work out how best to incorporate it. Use this page for inspiration, but don't be afraid to come up with ideas of your own!
